Temtex Announces Launch of Neutrano™ Watchlight™
The Worlds First Popularly Priced Watch with a Built-in Flashlight

Neutrano Watchlight Introduced at Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas

Toronto, Dec 26, 2007 - Temtex Industries Inc. has launched the world's first quartz-analog watch combined with an LED flashlight at a breakthrough price point starting at $25, the Neutrano Watchlight.

This watch provides consumers with an amazingly useful utility. It eliminates the need of an additional light source in most instances. Watchlight offers the freedom of doing hands-free tasks while illuminating a large area.

Watchlight's discretely built-in, super-bright LED bulb projects a 15-foot light beam. The light is powered by separate batteries from the watch and will last for many months with normal use. This is due to its 30 second and five-minute automatic shut-off feature.

Gary Rotman, President of Temtex claimed, "We handed out samples to dozens of people of all ages and occupations, and in return we requested their comments about the product one week later." Mr. Rotman explained, "The response was beyond our high expectations as nearly every person had different uses and stories to tell, and were quite surprised that the Watchlight came in handy often several times a day."

"When we asked if they were wearing the watch now, almost all said it was on their wrist as we spoke. From women to men to teens and for all ages this result represents the ultimate mission of Temtex's Neutrano products, to build in useful new technology into timepieces cost-effectively for the average consumer".

"Since cell phones tell time, consumers now have another practical reason to start wearing watches again. We are offering Watchlight in three collections. The Casual Collection is for men and ladies in leather, rubber, and metal bands, while the Active Collection features an additional red strobe light for safe outdoor use available in fashionable translucent colors, as well as the premier Steel Collection."

The Neutrano Watchlight suggested retail price ranges from $25 to $80.

Temtex specializes in combining new technology utilized daily into timepieces with both function and fashion being equally important.
