Toronto, January 5, 2009 – Neutrano, Inc. is debuting WristFone - the ultimate all-in one mobile phone watch at the Consumer Electronics Fair in January, 2009. Neutrano smartly combined the most popular personal electronic devices - a phone, a music player and a camera - inside a surprisingly functional, sleek looking wrist watch. High tech, spy tech and entertaining. And you will never misplace your cell phone again. Neutrano was first to market the digital viewer world class timepiece - the Photowatch in Spring, 2008.

WristFone is a precision molded GSM cell phone watch with a high quality touchscreen LCD display and a built-in numeric keypad for quick dialing and texting while on the go. Make a quick call and leave everyone flat faced with its user-friendly functions while showing them a video or playing your favorite tunes. Pair it to a bluetooth earpiece (or included wired earphones with MIC) to start making/receiving calls and listening to music. Have some time to kill during your daily commute? WristFone can tune into your favorite radio station, watch videos, or even surf the internet while you are riding on the metro.

Let's not forget, WristFone is a multifunction digital watch. An attractive 3-hand analog dial with date "screen saver" conceals the phone, music and camera functions. Other watch features include programmable alarms and to do lists for keeping you on schedule and in style.

"After 16 months of painstaking R & D, and the result has surpassed even our highest of expectations" claims Mr. Rotman, President of Neutrano. "Our experience from developing Photowatch™ was paramount in raising the bar for quality and reliability of wearable electronics. We believe Neutrano's 25 years experience as a electronic watch manufacturer is paramount in its ability to compete with major cell phone manufacturers worldwide. Although WristFone is a cell phone, once on your wrist, its still a watch".

"We predict electronic lovers everywhere will become literally "attached" to this wearable phone/timepiece because of its quality, reliability, ease of use, tremendous functionality – not to mention the cool factor! Phonewatch is right out of a Dick Tracy Movie" beams Mr. Rotman.

WristFone will be available in black, brown, blue, white and pink and retail in $250-$300 range and will be supported with customer support and a limited warranty. WristFone can be adjusted for the network requirements for any country worldwide. With advent of handsfree cell phones becoming mandatory while driving, the WirstFone will become a must have phone, especially with its Bluetooth capabilities.
